MORROW CO. FARMER KILLED BY LIGHTNING

Wilbur E. Mosher Meets Death When Driving Tractor on Farm.

Special to The Star

ASHLEY, June 14—Wilbur E. Mosher, 30, Morrow county farmer, was killed yesterday at about 4 p. m. when struck by a bolt of lightning.

The accident occurred on his farm, which is located in Peru township on a road connecting route 61 with South Woodbury.

He, his father, Foster Mosher, and brother, Bryant Mosher, had been plowing and were caught in a field at the time of the electrical storm. All were driving tractors back to the farmhouse when he was struck. Neither his father nor brother was injured.

His father felt the shock and turning, saw Wilbur topple over backwards. His feet became entangled in the pedals of the tractor, causing it to stop.

An Ashley physician who was called said that death was instant.

Mr. Mosher, a lifelong resident of Morrow county, was a Peru township trustee, a member of the Marengo Methodist church, and the Morrow county Grange. He was born Sept. 11, 1916.

He is survived by his parents, his brother Bryant, his wife Jane Hatten Mosher, and three children, Samuel, Ann and Marylin. All live in Peru township.

He was married in Mansfield in October, 1938.

His body was taken to Curl funeral home in Cardington and will be transferred to the Jacobs funeral home in Marengo, where friends may call. It was necessary to take his body to the Curl home first, because the storm extinguished the lights at the Jacobs home.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2:30 p. m. in the Marengo Methodist church. They will be conducted by Rev. Dale Riggs, pastor. Burial will be in the Mt. Gilead cemetery.

Lightning Cripples Electric Service In Part of City

A total of 2.88 inches of rain fell in the area at the Marion waterworks between 3:30 p. m. Friday and 8 a. m today, Charles Whysall, water company chemist, reported this morning. While heavy rains fell throughout the area, the gauge at the waterworks registered a fall of 1.25 inches between 2 and 2:35 a. m. today. Other exceptionally heavy falls were recorded yesterday when .65 of an inch fell between 3:30 and 3:50 p. m. and .55 came down between 8:35 and 9:50 last night.

The total fall between 8 a. m. yesterday and 8 a. m. today reported by the government weather observer in the city, Mrs. Harry Haberman, was 1.84 inches.

Temporary suspension of electric power in the southern section of Marion and minor property damage resulted from an electrical storm which passed over Marion Friday afternoon and evening.

FOREIGN POLICY TALKS URGED

Vandenberg Asks Planned Aid and an End To Meeting "Unanticipated Crises."

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 14—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) served friendly notice on the administration today that the time has come for Republican and Democratic leaders to size up together the long-range job of setting the world's economy to rights.

The United States, he said, cannot go on trying to meet "unanticipated crises" one by one.

The chairman of the foreign relations committee said there should be an advisory council of top men from both parties to take a balance sheet of the world's needs and the ability of this country's taxpayers to meet them.

"Don't Depend On U.S."

In a statement beamed for consumption abroad as well as at home, Vandenberg last night cautioned "our foreign friends" not to "depend upon us as a substitute for depending upon themselves."

He demanded "a sound overall inventory of our resources to determine the latitude within which we may consider these foreign needs."

"If America ever sags," he said, "the world's hopes sag with her."

His proposal won prompt support from both leading Democrats and Republicans in congress, although Chairman Taft (Ohio) of the senate Republican policy committee was, perhaps significantly, silent.

Taft Declines Comment

Declining comment on the Vandenberg statement, Taft told reporters that the senate-house economic committee which he heads plans to make its own full-scale inquiry into the effect of possible foreign aid programs on the domestic economy.

"We want to find out the effect on taxes, production and prices of these proposed programs to rehabilitate foreign nations," he said. "We expect to get some expert testimony on the amount of money likely to be involved as well as the volume of goods which might be shipped abroad."

Taft, who recently clashed verbally with President Truman over the effect of foreign aid programs on domestic prices, said the committee will begin its general hearings June 23.

Columbus Paralyzed by One Of Worst Power Failures in Years

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 14 — Blacked out and paralyzed for nearly two hours last night, Columbus gradually was regaining its feet today.

One of the worst power failures in the city's history snuffed out lights, stalled street cars and trolley buses, silenced radio stations and other communications, and curtailed industrial production. It was caused by a severe electrical storm about 9 p. m.

Lightning that apparently struck the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.'s power station on Big Walnut creek south of the state capital caused the power failure, Harlan McCoy, company service dispatcher, said.

State House O. K.

Municipal buildings and the Ohio state house—where the general assembly is winding up its affairs prior to possible adjournment today — were unaffected, since both operate on independent power plants.

Nearly one inch of rainfall between 9 and 10:20 p. m. was reported by the Fort Columbus weather bureau. Streets and underpasses were flooded by torrential downpours.

Trees and wires fell beneath a stiff wind that sometimes approached 35-mile-an-hour velocity.

At Children's hospital, one of many darkened for about two hours, an electrically driven iron lung had to be operated manually.

Search for Victims

The Coast Guard today began a search for three possible drowning victims off Gordon park beach in Cleveland. The boats may have been lost when Doan creek, outlet of the Gordon park lagoon to Lake Erie, rose three feet within 20 minutes during last night's heavy rainfall, the Coast Guard said.

Five capsized boats were recovered and the Coast Guard crew found that 18 of 21 boats rented were accounted for at the lagoon.

Five men who had been fishing in two boats were rescued as the sudden wall of water threatened to sweep their boats out into the lake.

Legislature Pounds Down Home Stretch Toward Finish Tonight

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 14—The Ohio legislature pounded down the home stretch today with a series of high hurdles to clear in its race to complete work tonight—or possibly Sunday morning.

Major hurdles included:

Conference committee agreements on the Daniels-Cramer school bill, general appropriations measure, and the Ferguson proposal to ban strikes by public employes.

Senate revision of the Van Aken union-regulation measure to meet administration objections to the house-passed version.

House concurrence in senate changes to coal strip mining regulations.

Capital improvements bill passed by the house but pending in the senate finance committee.

Colored oleomargarine bill pending in the house rules committee.

Both houses called morning sessions but leaders shied from predictions on when the lawmakers would go home.

Should work extend past midnight, clocks will be covered to preserve the legislative illusion that it still was Saturday.

The general assembly has agreed to return in skeleton session next Wednesday to sign bills and adjourn sine die June 30.

A senate commerce and labor sub-committee labored late last night to complete modification of the Van Aken bill for the full committee consideration this morning.

Gov. Thomas J. Herbert's objections to the house-approved measure, which has been lambasted by organized labor, nearly precipitated a deadlock in legislature activities.

House Starts Protest

The house started to defeat senate bills in protest to "front office" intervention but relented after Herbert indicated various changes would meet his objections.

Reports had circulated that the Van Aken bill and the house-passed Veech resolution to ban the closed shop in Ohio would be left to die in the senate committee. Nothing further has been heard of the Veech proposal.

The Van Aken bill as approved by the house would ban strikes except by majority vote of union members in secret ballot, restrict the amount of initiation fees, limit picket lines to two persons and set up other curbs.

The house precipitated differences over the Ferguson measure by reducing from five years to one the period of probation for rehired public employes discharged because they struck, and cutting from three years to six months the period during which such workers could not get pay raises.

Requires Discharge

The bill requires discharge of public employes, including school teachers, who strike.

Senate and house conferees deadlocked over the amount of

TRUMAN MUM ON HIS TAX, LABOR DECISION

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 14—The White House announced today that President Truman will act "sometime Monday" on the tax reduction bill.

• • •

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 14—President Truman, back from his good will trip to Canada, kept mum today on whether he will slap the widely predicted veto on a bill to cut income taxes $4,000,000,000 a year.

He gave no inkling either of his intentions toward the less immediate problem of the Taft-Hartley labor bill, on which he is known to have received conflicting advice from his counselors.

Republican leaders in the house were so confident Mr. Truman will reject the tax measure—he has until Monday midnight to act—that they went ahead with plans for a vote Tuesday on a motion to override. This would be followed by a similar attempt a day later in the senate, where chances for success are considered poor.

As for his decision on the labor bill, which he must approve, reject or permit to become law without his signature by Friday midnight, most members of congress professed to be in the dark.

When the President's special train arrived from Ottawa last night he would only tell reporters: "I'll let you know my answer on the tax bill some time between now and Monday."

Since both the house and senate were on a weekend recess, this was taken to mean Mr. Truman would send his message to Capitol Hill Monday.

Filmland's Top Party Thrower Is Teetotaler

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD, June 14 — An elderly vegetarian who doesn't tipple is the king of West Coast party throwers.

And no one has more fun at his parties than does multi-millionaire Atwater Kent, 73-year-old retired inventor and radio manufacturer.

Searching for operatic talent, helping charities and giving parties are his hobbies.

Hal Boyle

"I like people and I like to see them have a good time," he said. "I have no work to do now since I retired. So consequently I can put all my time into my pleasures—and people are my chief pleasure."

His home in a fabulous red-roofed white villa atop a mountain in Bel Air, an exclusive district where tired people rest from making much money and even the moths are reported to have gold-plated wings. The estate, one of the real showplaces of America, has a series of terraced gardens reminiscent of an old Italian castle.

Lives "Practically" Alone

Kent — his friends insist on calling him "Attie" but "I really prefer to be called Atwater" — lives alone on the estate with 17 house servants and seven gardeners.

Diplomats, financiers, movie stars, notables in many fields and ordinary people he just met and liked are invited to his parties. They all come. His parties are divided into two kinds—civic and private. The civic affairs may bring up to 500 guests—such as the party he once threw for the children of the movie colony. He hired a circus for the day—gossips said it cost $3,000 and he enjoyed it so much he brought the circus back for four other parties. Total casualties: One camel fell off a truck, one lady writer fell off an elephant.

Boyle at Small Party

I went to one of his smaller private parties, the kind he likes best to give. He greeted us at the door—as he does every guest individually — a slim small upright man with keen and friendly blue eyes and an old-world politeness. He wore a gray suit, black shoes and a large red and gray bowtie.

He is what the ladies hereabouts describe as "one of the last of the real gentlemen."

Scores of gaily colored balloons with long strings floated about the rooms. I asked him his recipe for a good party—aside from the good drinks, good food, and good music he always provides—and he said:

125 About Right

"For a friends' party like this I like to have about 125 people. Over that it gets unwieldy, and I can't mingle with them all and be friendly or as hospitable as I like."

"I think that at least half the people should know each other. If there are too many strangers they don't mix well. The first hour is the critical period of a party—it is always quiet. By the second hour they've eaten and had a little to drink, and are feeling better. By the third hour they know each other, and everything is going strong."

I asked about the balloons.

"I first used them at the circus party," he said. "They made quite a hit. They stir things up—take away the formality."

Although he lives abstemiously himself, he delights in seeing his guests eat and drink well. But his parties are never raucous.

All People Interesting

Kent said he didn't know which of the hundreds of guests who had come to his home had been most interesting.

"And if I did," he said, "I wouldn't say. Like Will Rogers, I like every man I have ever met. I just want to share in people having a good time."

A film figure present estimated that it cost "$15 to $20 a head—that's the way we figure them in Hollywood—by the head"—for entertainment of the kind Kent likes to provide.

"That would make $2,500 or under for this little gathering," he said.

But to Kent now "giving parties is the biggest pleasure in life." It's worth it to him if the guests have fun. And where do you think Hollywood's leading party thrower was born?

Vermont!

Yes, V-E-R-M-O-N-T!

Baptismal Service Scheduled Sunday

During the morning worship hour of First Evangelical and Reformed church tomorrow, there will be baptism of children and infants. The children's choir will sing, and Rev. E. H. Wierth, pastor, will preach on "The Marks of Jesus."

The Girls' Guild will hold a picnic at McKinley park Tuesday at 6 p. m., and Thursday at 5:30 p. m., the C. I. B. class will have a covered dish family picnic with carry-in service at McKinley park.

Controls on Installment Buying May Be Abolished by Congress

By James Marlow
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, June 14 — You want to buy something on time? Now the government lays down the rules on how you do it.

For example:

On things like autos and refrigerators you must pay one-third of the value down and the balance within 15 months.

James Marlow

There's a chance the controls may be removed altogether. Should they be? President Truman says no. He argues this way:

Goods still are not plentiful enough to meet full demand. Even so, installment buying is increasing. And—

The more that kind of buying increases, with goods still not plentiful, the more the tendency for prices to rise. He wants prices kept down.

"Work Against People"

The opposite argument comes from Rep. Wolcott, Michigan Republican and chairman of the house banking committee:

The controls work against those people who haven't been able to save enough money to make a fair-size down payment. For example:

Now a man who wants a $1,500 auto must pay one-third down, $500, and the rest in 15 months.

But a man who hasn't saved $500 still could buy a car if the down payment were smaller and the time for the balance was longer than 15 months.

In 1940, before the controls, total consumer credit was $8,153,000,000. In 9146, with the controls in effect, it was $9,958,000,000.

Truman Continues Controls

President Roosevelt, under his wartime powers, imposed the controls in 1941 to control prices a bit. President Truman has continued them.

But should such controls, with the war over two years, be continued by Presidential wartime power alone?

Mr. Truman thinks not, even though he wants them continued. This week he asked congress to continue them by passing a law.

He says that if congress doesn't continue them by law, he'll drop the controls altogether.

He told that to Wolcott's banking committee, which is considering the problem.

Because of Wolcott's attitude, outlined above, his committee is unlikely to recommend to the full congress that such a law be passed.

So if congress doesn't act, the President will drop the controls, even though his economic advisors want them continued.

HAS SUITOR KILLED "TO PUT DAD AWAY"

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, June 14—A 23-year-old chubby, red-haired woman wanted her father "put away for good," so she persuaded him to murder her 61-year-old admirer nearly two years ago, she told police.

Detective Chief Clem Merz said Miss Virginia Gibbs was charged with murder shortly after she had walked into police headquarters yesterday and asked to be arrested in connection with the slaying, Sept. 3, 1945, of Henry F. Smith, machine tool broker.

"She said her conscience had been bothering her," Merz declared.

In a signed statement, the young woman said it was at her urging that her father, Charles Gibbs, 57, invaded Smith's downtown hotel room and pumped five pistol shots into the man's body.

The father, charged with murder, was declared insane prior to the time of his scheduled trial and was sent to Lima State hospital.

In her statement, the young women said she "wanted to get rid of my father," not Smith.

"Father was so mean to mother and I, and he beat us. I knew if he got into trouble they would put him away for good, so I plotted for him to kill Smith."

She said her father hated Smith "and was jealous of him."

SAYS DELAWARE DAM ABSOLUTE NECESSITY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 14—Rep. McGregor (R-Ohio) said yesterday there is an "absolute necessity" for completion of the Delaware river flood control dam in Delaware county, O.

Asked by a reporter concerning a report that William Corry, manager of the Zanesville, O., Chamber of Commerce, has challenged him to seek a halt in construction of the dam, McGregor said:

"The Delaware dam is absolutely necessary for flood control."

He added he recently asked a house appropriations committee to vote $1,800,000 for the dam which, he said, is two-thirds or three-fourths completed.

McGregor said he is opposed definitely to construction at this time of the Dillon dam on Licking river in Licking and Muskingum counties.

"The benefits to be derived from the Dillon dam," he said, "do not justify high construction costs at this time."

He said the original authorization for Dillon dam was for $4,400,000 and the cost now is estimated at $13,772,000.

For the ceremony, read at 2:30 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. L. V. Bauguess, the altar was banked with palms and garlands of smilax intertwined the railing to form a setting for the tall white baskets filled with white ribbon bows.

Mrs. Harry T. Williams played a program of wedding music and Mrs. George Griffith sang. The organ numbers included "Wedding Bells," Truette, "Serenade," Tosselli, "Ich liebe Dich," Grieg, "Canzone Amoroso," Nevin, "Liebestraume," Liszt, "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," Herbert and "Intermezzo," Provost and Mrs. Griffith sang "Because," D'Hardelot," "Oh, Promise Me," deKoven, and "I Love You Truly," Bond.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was costumed in a wedding gown of white marquisette. A pleated ruffle edged with a tiny satin cord outlined the yoke and tiny self-covered buttons extended below the waistline of the bodice in the back. The long fitted sleeves ended in points at the hands. The pleating was repeated in a peplum which extended to form a panel in the back and edge the deep full train. Her net bridal veil was fingertip length and fell from a Juliet cap edged with a tiny braided band of net and satin. Her flowers were white orchids and stephanotis in a shower bouquet and she wore the bridegroom's gift, a strand of pearls.

MRS. M. P. WIANT

Miss Marilyn Sletvold was her maid of honor. Her gown was in an ice green shade fashioned with a dropped waistline and a deep ruffle formed the neckline and sleeves. She wore pink mitts and her headdress was a braided coronet of the same material as her gown and was caught with a large pink bow at the back of her head. Her flowers were pink roses in a crescent bouquet. A pink dotted swiss frock was worn by Bonnie Sue Wiant, niece of the bridegroom, who was the flower girl. She carried a basket of summer flowers. To light the candles Miss Patricia Wiant, sister of the bridegroom, wore a pink gown identical with that worn by the maid of honor, and her wrist corsage was white carnations and she wore the same flowers in her hair.

Ben W. Wiant, brother of the bridegroom, was his best man and ushers were Robert W. Solinger, Raymond N. Erskine, Clifford T. Adams of Marion and Ray Ferbrache of Westerville.

The bride's mother wore a crepe gown in a soft beige shade with a white hat with brown trim and the bridegroom's mother was costumed in a light blue sheer dress with white accessories. Both wore corsages of purple orchids.

Huckleberry foliage banked the fireplace at Greenwood Inn where Mr. and Mrs. LaPierre entertained with a reception for 80 guests. The large table was lighted with candles and centered with pink carnations. Another table held the tiered wedding cake encircled with huckleberry foliage and white flowers and crystal vases on the smaller tables held pink carnations. Assisting were Mrs. Bernard Maguire of Montreal, Canada, Mrs. Ben W. Wiant and Mrs. Robert W. Solinger.

When the couple left on a wedding trip through the south the bride chose for traveling a green and white suit costume, and wore a Panama hat trimmed with a Kelly green bow, and Kelly green accessories. Upon their return they will make their home in Detroit, Mich. where the bridegroom is associated with Parke-Davis.

The bride was graduated from Harding High school, attended Bowling Green university and has been employed at the Hughes studio. Mr. Wiant, also a graduate of Harding, was graduated in chemical engineering from Ohio State university. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity.

Guests from out of the city included Mr. and Mrs. Armand Hoover and son Philip, Miss Nancy Reaser, Mr. and Mrs. James Hill of Columbus; Miss Lucille Deily of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Christman and children Judy, Patricia and Billy, Mrs. Annie Tiderick, Richard Roby of Akron; Thomas Fink of Mansfield; Lee Olsen of Youngstown; Robert Sears of Cuyahoga Falls; Miss Mary Price of Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baker of Bellevue, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ferbrache of Westerville, and Mr. and Mrs. James Shumaker and son James of Rocky River, O.

MARITIME INDUSTRY STRIKE FACES NATION

By The Associated Press

The nation today faced the possibility of a coast-to-coast strike by CIO unions in the vital maritime industry on Monday while other trouble spots in the labor picture included two crippling transit strikes and a dispute that has slowed Ford Motor Co. production.

CIO President Philip Murray said that "in all likelihood" five CIO unions representing 200,000 maritime workers would walk out when their contracts expired midnight Sunday.

A federal conciliator at New York was hopeful a settlement could be reached between the unions and employers.

In Detroit the Ford Motor Company, which shut down its body and final assembly lines in the face of an alleged slowdown, indicated it would resume operations Monday on two assembly lines.

The company is involved in a dispute with the Foremen's Association of America.

A strike of 85 workers at DeSoto division of Chrysler Corporation ended after only one shift, leaving only 3,800 striking Ford foremen and 1,200 UAW-CIO employes of Continental Motors Corp. still idle in the automobile industry.

There's FUTURE IN FERTILITY

THREE METHODS . . . SAME INTERCHANGEABLE HOPPERS

1 PLANTING — Fertilize while you plant. Greatest return from small amount of fertilizer. Stimulates early growth. Young crops grow faster than weeds — mature earlier.

2 PLOW-SOLE — Fertilize while you plow. Makes plant food available to deep growing roots and sub-surface moisture. Produces impressive yields. Heavy applications possible without danger to plants. Can be applied fall or spring.

3 SIDE DRESSING — Fertilize while you cultivate. Provides plant food when greatly needed. Requires half as much fertilizer as when broadcast or disced in. Convenient method for applying heavy applications on thin soils.

Proper use of fertilizer on your farm may help you reach new levels of crop production. Even so-called "rich land" a "balanced diet" can produce surprising results.

Yes, fertilizing pays, but merely applying fertilizer is not enough. Improper application is a waste of money . . . can even do more harm than good. Experience has shown that small amounts of fertilizer properly placed produce greater gains than large amounts poorly placed.

Study the three methods shown here. Use all three for maximum results . . . eliminate extra operation. Stop in and talk to us about modern equipment for improving your soil and increasing your profits.

Trim, Taut—and simply Terrific

Step into this one — and you'll have to hang on tight to keep your spirits from soaring right out of this world.

There's no trimmer, tidier, fresher bit of automotive styling anywhere in sight, and never in your life have you had more of the makings of fun and adventure right at your finger tips.

You handle a wheel that seems moved more by your wishes than your muscle.

You boss a big Fireball straight-eight whose mission in life is eating tall mountains and making the miles cry "Uncle!"

You take your ease on broad, soft DeepFlex cushions — flick the proper control, and the door windows roll up to shield all wind currents, the cup ventilators take effect against a sudden storm, or the front seat adjusts itself to your perfect comfort.

All the while there's the good steady feel of Buick solidity beneath you. There's the fluent, easy stride of wheels cushioned all around by gentle coil springs. There's size — and room — and loveliness — and that mastery of good roads and bad found only in a performer that's built to star in any company.

A buy? But naturally! Nowhere but in Buick will you find all this smartness — nowhere but in a Convertible do Buick power, size, comfort and steadiness pay off so handsomely in sheer joy in going places.

So count yourself lucky if your order's in. Or, if it isn't, count yourself smart if you nail one down without further urging.

For while we'll take your order any time, with or without a car to trade, only you can make sure (by placing your order) that no one else is going to get ahead of you.

The Atomic Rat-Race

DAVID LILIENTHAL fears that, even though we had a head start on atomic energy, we are losing our lead. He fears decisions of tremendous portent will have to be made by a few men because the people at large feel the subject is too vast and therefore make no effort to face it. The technical aspects of atomic energy do not have to be dealt with, he says, in the use of community discussion groups to instruct the public generally in the broad issues of a united atomic policy.

Meanwhile, Soviet Delegate Andrei Gromyko has made what appears to be broad concessions in the matter of atomic materials control, even yielding, apparently, on the matter of an international inspection system.

Who is equipped to evaluate Russia's concessions in the light of her foreign policy and in the light of her past record in international councils? Snap judgment can be collected by the score by any sidewalk interviewer, but they will be based on instinct and prejudice and rarely on any sincere contemplation of the subject. That leaves the decisions to a few men who hope they're right. That isn't the way it should be in a government based on democratic rule.

A Vigorous Centenarian

A METROPOLITAN contemporary, the Chicago Tribune, is celebrating its centenary this month with an observance that has made itself felt the length and breadth of Chicagoland, as it calls its extensive domain.

The Tribune has had an extra something down through the years to account for its unprecedented growth. It speaks its mind loudly and distinctly on a great many subjects and has made a lot of enemies by doing so. But it continues to grow under the guidance of Col. Robert R. McCormick. That growth wouldn't have been possible unless it was giving Chicagoland what it wants to read. Based on past performance, the Tribune will be gracing the breakfast tables of the Midwest for many, many years.

An Assignment for Byrnes

JAMES F. BYRNES, former secretary of state, is the latest public figure to find an assignment on the policy-making level in Hollywood. Before him were Eric Johnston and Wendell Willkie, and, before them, Will Hays, who once was postmaster general.

Motion pictures, a medium for the dissemination of entertainment and enlightenment, is one of the nation's largest industries. Hollywood sells its product to millions of Americans and foreign countries see us largely through Hollywood's eyes. Hollywood can use the judgment and knowledge of a senior statesman in shaping its politics.

A Lynching Is Halted

THE HALTING of a lynching at Hurtsboro, Ala., by a courageous mayor, a councilman and a former mayor, shows that the lynching problem isn't beyond solution if the South wills it. All that's needed are courageous elected officials who live up to their oath of office, know their duty and do it.

The Hurtsboro incident, plus the manner in which the recent Greensboro, S. C., trial was handled by judge and prosecutor, indicate the South's officials are becoming aware of their responsibilities.

ENDING of sugar rationing is another step on the road back to normalcy in everyday life. Coming as it does in time for the canning season makes it especially welcome.

The ration book may now be turned over to the household pup for masticating, or it may be consigned to the drawer with the draft card and draft board communications, blotters on which is printed "Okay, Tojo, You Asked for It," the air raid warden brassard, the report on the 1943 neighborhood waste paper collection and a program from the 1944 V for Victory dinner.

Holding the Bag

By FRANK TRIPP

ALMOST every time a fellow rates a complimentary dinner, his friends give him a traveling bag. A going away present for a bird who usually hopes to stay right where he is and keep his job.

The only good reason that I can see is the chance it gives the diners to spring all the bromides about "holding the bag."

It's a help to a drafted toastmaster. There's a stock speech, with or without pathos, that always ends, "Elmer, your friends hope you will use this slight expression of their affection often but always bring it back."

Then he reaches behind his chair and clumsily brings forth the satchel which has been there all evening; right where the recipient has had a good look at it and already wished they'd give him the dough.

The wit who's been presiding tips over two glasses and a candlestick but finally gets the luggage into the hands of the disappointed guest of honor. He opens it, hoping to find a fifth inside; but it's empty and lined like a gypsy tent.

Hardly able to talk, he gulps his appreciation and sheds a few tears. The congregation thinks it's emotion but the poor guy is crying real grief. He's thinking of what he wished he'd got.

I had an attic full of traveling bags that were given me for making speeches. The bags were as good as the speeches, which isn't saying much. Meantime I had three watches go on the bum and every time I hoped the honorarium would be a watch but it never was.

Finally I got wise. When they invited me to speak and mentioned that they didn't have much to spend for a fee, I told them how much it would be. Most always they'd write back that because of a death in the chairman's family the affair had been called off. If you can stand on your feet and keep your tongue wagging for 20 minutes or better you can make a speech a week, provided you stay amateur, charge no fee and settle for a traveling bag now and then.

When I bought my last watch I was tempted to emulate a Chicago cartoonist that good old Emory Thomason told me about. One day he went off on a quiet solo tool. Passing a jeweler's window, watches caught his fancy. He bought one and had it engraved: "Presented to the biggest sap on earth, by himself, for no good reason whatever."

One time a retiring fire chief in a little burg near my town was given a big send off. They presented him a silver fire axe with a mahogany handle.

It was such an important occasion that the committee let the chief in on it so the ceremony could be impressive. The man who was to make the presentation and the chief got long speeches written for them and met every night for a week to rehearse. They had the whole thing down pat.

Then came the big night. The town hall was packed. The chairman called the chief to the rostrum. He had the axe behind his back and the chief stood before him. The knees of both chattered, then got weak. There was a long pause. The chairman couldn't get his speech started. Finally he said:

"Well, Joe, here's the axe."

"Damned if it ain't," stammered Joe—and the ceremony ended.

A Fair Trial Marriage

A New Jersey bride left her husband four hours after the wedding.

The marriage took place after a five-year courtship. She married at leisure and repented in haste.

Yes sir, it's a fast age we're living in. It's only 10 hours from coast to coast and four from altar to altercation.

The preacher pronounced them man and wife and she pronounced it ended. The poor groom didn't even get a chance to carry her over the threshold into her lawyer's office.

"Til death us do part" has been deleted from the streamlined ceremony. But a promise to love, ject to cancellation without at honor and obey ought not be sub-least 24 hours notice.

This nation needs a law to prevent people applying for separation papers before the ink is dry on their marriage license.

Too many people are showing up in divorce court with rice still in their hair.

Marshall's View of Europe

By WALTER LIPPMANN

SECRETARY OF STATE MARSHALL'S speech at the Harvard commencement last week had two pregnant statements—the one addressed to London and Paris and the other to Washington.

Marshall said, first, that "it would be neither fitting nor efficacious for this government to undertake to draw up unilaterally a program designed to place Europe on its feet economically. This is the business of the Europeans. The initiative, I think, must come from Europe."

This was public notice of what must in its details at this stage be carried on as a quiet discussion. It indicates that measures must be devised to meet the dollar deficit, which will be so acute by next winter that it will cause a collapse of a large part of American exports to Europe.

Marshall was saying publicly that the United States can not go to congress for funds until the European governments have made up their minds whether they want them and for what purpose, and that if they are going to need help on a large scale, they must not wait until the crisis has exploded but must prepare for it now while there is still a little time left.

For while the American people can be persuaded both in their own interest and in that of civilization in general to make grants-in-aid toward European reconstruction, they can not do this intelligently unless the leading countries of Europe, with Canada, which is also facing a dollar shortage, playing an important intermediary part—take the initiative in drawing up an intelligible plan.

There are, however, many obstacles and inhibitions to be overcome. Foremost among them is the weariness of overworked officials in Europe, and the overwhelming preoccupation of the people of Europe with the daily business of living under excessively hard conditions of life. The mental and spiritual climate of Europe, and to a marked though lesser degree here also, is not conducive to large and far-reaching designs, which call for lucidity, imagination and firm decision.

Yet, in the light of British Prime Minister Attlee's performance with India there is no reason to feel that the will and the know-how of great and constructive statesmanship have been lost on the other side of the Atlantic.

There are also, of course, all the obstacles arising from the conflict with Russia, which divides so deeply almost all the continental nations and, more than appears on the surface, Great Britain as well. To assuage that conflict, and to transcend it, is the great task of statesmanship.

The problem is how to form a plan of European recovery—initiated in western Europe—which, though it could be made to work without eastern Europe and without Soviet collaboration, would work far better if eastern Europe participated and the Soviet Union approved.

The basic principle of such a European plan would therefore be not to form a western bloc which excluded eastern Europe and was defensively and offensively opposed to the Soviets—but to form the nucleus of a European union which is meant to include them, and offers them superior advantages if they collaborate.

A close examination of the discussions at Moscow indicates that the formulation of such a plan is not beyond the wit of men or outside the practical possibilities of the international situation.

This brings us to Marshall's other statement—the one which was addressed not to Europe but to this country. The language he used here was veiled. Marshall said that "an essential part of any successful action on the part of the United States is an understanding on the part of the people of America of the character of the problem and the remedies to be applied. Political passion and prejudice should have no part."

Plainly Spoken

These words cross no t's and dot no i's, and it would be unfair to translate these general remarks in such a way as to make the secretary say more than he may have thought advisable to say, or indeed more than he may have meant.

But it is fair comment, I believe, to say that these remarks would not have been uttered were there not a growing body of informed and serious opinion, of very highly qualified opinion, which is aware that the so-called Truman doctrine, not perhaps in its original intent, but as it is advertised and exploited and applied by amateurs, zealots and mere politicians, is self-defeating—that it is alienating not merely Communist Russia but the democratic, and soberly conservative, elements in Europe on whom any general settlement and plan of reconstruction necessarily depends.

Marshall's veiled reference to "understanding" the "character" of the problem, and his appeal that we forego political passion and prejudice" are not at this juncture the ordinary platitudes of a public speaker. They are a delicate intimation that, in high quarters and in many other quarters, political passion and prejudice may be preventing an understanding of the character of the problem in Europe, and that—to put it indelicately—if, as some thought, Philip had to get drunk if Congress was to support the "Truman doctrine," Philip had better begin to sober up before he acquires the habit of thinking that he is a combination of Moses, Julius Caesar, Santa Claus and Mr. Fixit to all mankind.

WHAT WILL HE DO ABOUT IT?

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Monday, June 14, 1937.

The "boys in blue" of the Ohio Department of the G. A. R. carried on in their seventy-first annual encampment at Columbus without their leader, Francis S. Layton of Marion, who was unable to attend on account of illness.

Jesse H. Mason, Canton school superintendent and former superintendent of the Marion schools, received the degree of doctor of education at the Ohio Wesleyan university commencement at Delaware.

James M. Cusick was elected grand marshal of the Grand Grove of Ohio, United Ancient Order of Druids, at the closing session of the eighty-seventh annual convention here.

Members of Captain William Hendricks chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, entertained with a Flag day tea at Hotel Harding. Mrs. James G. Cooper, regent, presided.

Miss Elizabeth Schrader, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Probst of East Center street, received her diploma in the commencement exercises at Baldwin-Wallace college, where she majored in home economics.

John Rife, with a score of 76 for 18 holes, set the pace in the match between Mar-O-Del golfers and players from the Marysville Country club at Marysville. Scoring with Rife were Ben Miller, 81, Carl Wiseman, 83, and Eddie Dutt, 83, of Marion, and Hal Simpson of Marysville, 84.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, June 14, 1927.

President Coolidge, giving the memorial address at the dedication of Wicker park at Huntington, Ind., in honor of World war heroes, set as a new goal in national progress: first, higher wages for unskilled laborers; second, greater educational facilities; third, a more general exercise of the voting franchise; fourth, curbing of the current wave of crime and violence; fifth, closer attention to religious devotion.

Alarm was expressed here over the increase of traffic deaths. Three persons had been killed within a week and three were in the hospital with serious injuries.

Miss Anna F. Quinn and John M. Bray were united in marriage at St. Mary Catholic church by Rev. F. X. Cotter.

Harold W. Kennedy of Martel was awarded the Western conference medal for excellence in scholarship and athletics in the fiftieth annual commencement exercises at Ohio State university.

Members of Captain William Hendricks chapter of the D. A. R. were hostesses at their annual Flag day observance and guest day party held at the Country club.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Miller on Windsor street.

Former American Teaches for Russians

ON RUSSIAN - OCCUPIED RUEGEN ISLAND — "There goes our English teacher," yipped a group of German children surrounding American news correspondents on a conducted tour of the Russian occupation zone.

The gray-haired teacher greeted what she called a "voice from home." She is Miss Charlotte Hiehle, who said she was a governess for 12 years in the United States, until 1938, but lost U. S. citizenship during the war when she remained here at the insistence of her mother.

Truncated Prosperity

By RAYMOND MOLEY

CLEVELAND, June 14 — Business experts here are not talking recession as much as they did six weeks ago. There seems to be a tendency toward what economists call "qualifications" and what the rest of us call hedging. Perhaps after all the pessimists have trimmed their sails, we may still have a recession of some proportion, but only because facts have a way with prophets.

After looking around here, it occurs to me that we may be having what someone called, a couple of years ago, "truncated" prosperity. Local indices are nearly all upward. There are reports of slow sales in many lines of merchandise. But price reductions have a definitely stimulating effect. A Cleveland economist who took a trip through western Ohio and southern Michigan says that farmers are not buying as had been expected. But this seems to be due to the depressing effect of weather. When they can't get their corn planted, they put off buying.

Some unemployment has shown up in the Cleveland district, but this seems to be caused by shutdowns in small press shops and the like. Big manufacturers are opening up their own parts departments, and that cuts off little fellows.

Over all, there is reason here for a modification of early predictions of genuinely bad business. Wise people are beginning to study more closely the statistical grounds for predictions of the last month. And what is more important, they are considering the fact that the average man places a different interpretation on the declarations of economic experts than the experts intended. For example, the economist, after consulting his charts, decides that business will be off 10 per cent. He then gives this the name "recession" or "depression," as the case may be. But the general public thinks these terms mean a much more profound trouble. The average man associates these words with 1920, 1932 or 1938. But this does not appear to be what the economists mean.

Just A "Hesitation"

The Taft committee on economic trends has just published the results of an elaborate questionnaire sent to 600 businessmen. The answers indicate an expected drop in general business of from 5 to 15 per cent. Suppose we call this a 10 per cent recession. That would be a hesitation hardly noticed by the man on the street. It is about what happened in early 1924 or in 1940. It is much less serious than the well-remembered years.

Perhaps we are getting overrefined in our statistical reporting and over-sensitive to what it means. And perhaps the choice of words of those who report statistics is due for an overhauling.

Generally stated, it would seem that the prospects of a serious recession are not yet present. A measurable crop failure caused by late planting, by drouth later on or by an early frost would seriously affect general economic conditions later in the year. But it is too early to judge that. The probability is that there will be a statistical decline, which the general public will not appreciably notice, and that the political and social effect of economic changes in the next few months will be negligible.

Germans To Run U. S. Military Trains

By The Associated Press

FRANKFURT — Operation of military trains in occupied Germany are being returned to German control.

American Army officers have been supervising military trains, which are reserved for Allied occupation personnel and goods. These trains have priority over civilian trains which are operated by a de-Nazified German staff.

However, American personnel will be removed from military trains as fast as German civilians can be trained to fill their places, headquarters said.

Although, for a while at least, an American officer will be assigned to each military train, he will have no authority except to report faults in German operation, the announcement said.

The school at Oakland church will be for children through 14 years of age and will be held from 9 a. m. to 11:30 each day through June 27. The Greenwood church school will be held in the Mark Street public school building and there will be daily sessions from 9 a. m. to 11:30 through June 27. Enrollment at the Epworth Methodist school, which opened Friday morning, including teach-ers and workers, was 150, it was reported. At the end of this week's sessions, the Emmanuel Baptist school and Wesleyan Methodist school reported an enrollment of nearly 100 pupils each. The Em-manuel school, under direction of the pastor, Dr. C. E. Hershey, starts each morning at 9:30. Classes of the Wesleyan school are from 9 a. m. to 11.

"Christ for Youth" Rally Programs Set

Continuing next week, the "Christ for Youth" rally services being conducted in Calvary Evan-gelical United Brethren church by the Youth Fellowship will again be under direction of Rev. James Sutherland of Akron and Rev. Dewey J. Long of Wagram as speaker and song leader re-spectively. Tomorrow morning at 10:30, Rev. Sutherland will preach on "An Eye for Men," based on verses four and five of Psalm 8. His message at 8 p. m. will be "The Pull of the Cross." In the morning, Rev. Long will not be present, having returned to his own congregation for morning service. He will be in Marion for the evening service of Calvary church at 7:30 and will lead a "singspiration" at the regular Youth Fellowship meeting preced-ing at 7 o'clock. At the morn-ing service, the Youth Fellowship choir will present an anthem.

In the service last night, Rev. Sutherland talked on "Creative Joy." A young people's choir sang, Rev. Long presented a solo, and Rev. R. W. Faulkner, pastor, offered prayer. For his Scripture verses of the fifteenth chapter of lesson, Rev. Sutherland chose Luke. It was announced that there will be no service tonight.

In last night's sermon Rev. Sutherland said: "There are three ways of getting lost. First, the soul way get lost, as the sheep, through heedlessness, disobedience, and ig-norance. There are a great many Christian people who are in the process of being lost because of carelessness, curiosity about the things we call sin. They get just as close as they can to sin with-out being too much involved in it.

"Second, the soul may become lost as the coin became lost, through sluggishness. We have been given the coin of our lives, our personalities, our abilities, and we are supposed to invest and make it active, and if we become sluggish we will be lost as the coin.

Third, the soul can become lost as the son became lost, through willfulness, because each wanted his own way.

"There are three consequences of getting lost. First, utter and helpless wretchedness. Second, uselessness, not serving the pur-pose for which we have been in-tended because we are lost. Third, degredation.

What Is Sin?

A Sermonette
By REV. DENNIS MATHERLEE
Pastor of First Wesleyan Methodist Church

IN THIS day of drifting and com-promise, when sin has become so common the question is often asked, "What is sin?" It is not what men say but "What saith the Scripture?" Romans 4:3. As space will not permit us to deal fully with this sin question, we shall deal with seven scriptural defini-tions set forth in the Bible, of what sin is.

(1) Stepping over or breaking the law of God. First John 3:4. "Whosoever committeth sin trans-gresseth the law for sin is the transgression of the law." God's moral laws are still binding, such as the commandments. Read these as found in Exodus 20, and see if you are stepping over and break-ing them. They are not kept be-cause of duty, but when you really have a change of heart you keep them because you love God and his commandments are not griev-ous.

(2) Coming short of God's re-quirements. First John 5:17, "All unrighteousness is sin and there is a sin not unto death." This does not license one to sin either in word, thought, or deed every day or at any time. There is a danger of sinning against the Holy Ghost which is the unpardonable sin, as found in verse 16, but it states in verse 17 that all unrighteousness is sin. This sin can be forgiven but need not be committed, and divine grace is absent from the heart that commits sin. Let us de-fine the word "righteous." Web-ster says, "It is living according to or ruled by the laws of God, blameless, virtuous, upright." When any act is contrary to the full requirements of the Holy Word it is sin, and sin separates from God, and the soul will be lost unless one repents and for-sakes sin. There is no such thing as a sinning Christian. Verse 18.

(3) Not living up to the light God has already given. James 4:17. "Therefore to him that knoweth to do good and doeth it not to him it is sin." I have talked with a num-ber of folk who try to excuse themselves by saying, "Well I am not such a bad person. I belong to such and such a church, although I don't live as a should." Therefore they admit they know they should do better. Where does this put this class—in the same class with all the other sinners.

Restitution and holiness and many other things have been only light obligations to many people for years. When you refuse these you become guilty before God and you are a sinner.

(4) Respect of person. James 2:9. "But if you have respect of persons ye commit sin." Where does this put the church which caters to persons with social pres-tige, placing them in prominent positions without an experience of saving and sanctifying grace in their hearts?

All men are equal in God's sight. All must humble themselves and come to repentance, whether great or small.

(5) Doing things that are doubtful. Romans 14:23. "And he that doubteth is damned if he eat because he eateth not of faith for whatsoever is not of faith is sin." This does not only apply to eating of meats and the distinction be-tween such under the Mosaic law, but any act that is not with a true faith that Jesus can approve. If there is a question of doubt, give the Lord the benefit of the doubt. Without faith it is impossible to please God.

(6) Foolish thoughts. Proverbs 24:9. "The thought of foolishness is sin." This is a serious state-ment. Dear reader, there is no place in a holy life for the cheap, chaffy, frivolous things of this world.

Preachers, the pulpit is to be a sacred place and is no place for wisecracks and cheap jestings. Neither is there any place for fool-ishness in your everyday walk of life, whether preachers or laymen. When these things exist in your life there's the absence of spiritual life. Your speech betrays a sinful heart.

(7) Pride, vanity, and the works of the wicked. Proverbs 21:4. "A high look and a proud heart and the plowing of the wicked is sin." A "high look" is the evidence of pride, self conceit, and vanity.

A proud heart: the source from which the "high look" comes. When you spend more time in front of the mirror than on your knees before God in prayer, or strut in your walk as you try to attract attention to self, it is the outflow of a proud, sinful heart.

The plowing of the wicked: the works of the wicked is sin, for it is not from the right nature. They seek the praise of men and not to glorify God. Yes, you may be ac-tive in the society of your church, but where sin is in the heart God cannot bless good deeds.

There is sin in the seed, sin in the root, sin the branch, and sin in the fruit.

Friend, if you do these things that the Holy Word says is sin, you are a sinner regardless of who you are. You will be lost unless you repent and have the root of inbred sin eradicated by Sancti-fying Grace.

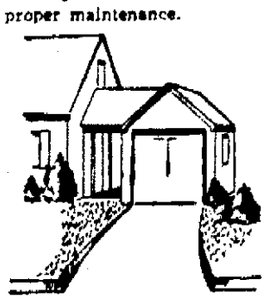
Well-Kept Grounds Cited As Means of Adding To Property's Value

YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW

By W. Wadsworth Wood

It is a well known fact that a well-built house located on poorly kept ground does not show to advantage, while a house of less value, situated on well-kept property is often placed in a better price bracket. It is usually assumed that the same carelessness shown by ill-kept grounds has been given to the house, and therefore it might require considerable repair to offset the lack of proper maintenance.



To keep the average suburban place in excellent shape with a minimum of labor is quite an easy job provided you have arranged accordingly, and the arranging is simply a matter of eliminating every feature of the grounds that requires very much attention.

The first earmark of a well-kept place is a nicely cut lawn. There is not much that can be done to avoid the weekly cutting, but much can be done to shorten the job by doing away with flowerbeds and edged shrub clumps which have to be cut around. Arrange to have lawns that can be cut quickly and in stright lines without delay.

The next earmark of a well-kept property is the edging of roads and paths, because the clearly defined line between roads and grass always looks neat while a broken down or uneven edge looks very badly. A permanent edge of metal or wood strip eliminates the most arduous of all grounds-keeping tasks, and roads and paths so outlined will always look well.

Step number three in arranging for order without much effort is to do away with road and path weeding. Any one who has taken care of his own place knows what a hard, never-ending task this is. Nevertheless, one application of weed-killer, applied after a good heavy rain or a heavy sprinkling of the road, will give you a year's respite from the task. The usual job of weeding consists of using a scraper which simply cuts the heads of the weeds, but leaves the roots under the surface to flower again in another week or so. The weed-killer will destroy both weed and root permanently.

When you have reduced these three principal jobs to an obsolute minimum, you will find that you have reduced the labor required to one-third of what it was.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Plastering Job

Q. Our 25-year-old house is in perfect condition on the outside, but the inside plaster walls and ceiling are badly cracked and crumbling. The man who stuccoed our house (a first-class workman) tells us they do not tear out the old plaster any more, just nail metal lath over the old plaster and plaster over that. If this were done, the woodwork would not protrude as far as it does now. Would you advise this method, or taking out the old plaster?

A. As your workman is thoroughly competent, I should let him undertake the work, following his own ideas. If you object to the shallow effect of the woodwork, you could have it altered, provided you could get the necessary parts.

* * *

Filled-in Flue Hole

Q. I have a filled-in flue hole, and I can't keep wallpaper on it; the heat makes it crack. Can you suggest something that will help?

A. You do not say how or what materials were used in filling the hole, but I will venture to say that there is insufficient thickness of material to retard the transmission of heat. Ordinarily, a mason fills in the hole with brick and plenty of mortar; then plaster is applied over lath.

* * *

Dull Knotty Pine

Q: One of our bedrooms has built-in cabinets and book-shelves of knotty pine. The wood looks rather dull, and I would like to know if it is advisable to apply shellac or polish on the wood to give it a glossy finish.

A: I presume the pine has no finish on it at present. If my assumption is correct, clean the surfaces with turpentine and steel wool, then finish the wood with two coats of white shellac, thinned half and half with denatured alcohol. Or you can finish with two coats of a penetrating wax which comes in "natural" and various wood colors.

* * *

Preserving Extension Ladder

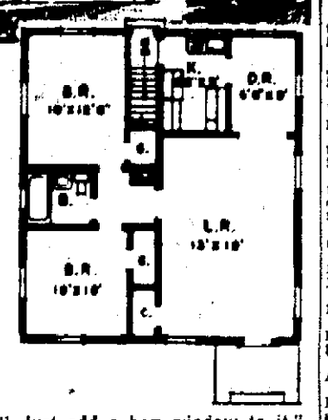
Q: What is the best way I can preserve my new extension ladder: oiling or painting? Or should I let it go to the natural color of the wood?

A: Give the ladder a liberal coat of raw linseed oil and then wipe off the excess. If you cannot get the oil, use the best substitute you can obtain. Repeat in a few days and continue as long as the wood absorbs the oil. Repeat once a year. Spar varnish can be substituted for an oil, using two or three coats. Each one should be hard and dry before the next is applied.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

By The Associated Press

Maximum housing in a minimum house is achieved in this plan by Elmer Gylleck, architect, 120½ So. Grove Ave., Elgin Ill. Colonial cottage in style, the house combines an attractive appearance with economy of simple rectangular form. It measures 28x30 providing 840 square feet, and contains 17,600 cubic feet with full basement. These figures can serve as a guide in local cost estimates. The architect calls attention to the large living room and says: "If the dining space is too small, just add a bay window to it." The exterior is white siding. Heat by forced warm air is among the principal specifications.



YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

New Weapon of Science

People sometimes ask me why it is that medical science is never content with one remedy against a given disease. Why is it, that our research scentists keep looking for others even when fairly efficient ones are already available?

Well, in the first place, that's how we make progress. If we keep looking we may find something better. In the second place, as I've told you before, doctors are like generals. They want a lot of weapons so as to be able to attack a disease from many different directions. In the third place, people are different even when they have the same disease. One may respond well to a treatment which has drawbacks for another.

These are some of the reasons why the medical world is elated over a new weapon against anemias of the type known as macrocytic anemia which has recently been added to our disease-fighting equipment. In all anemias there is a lessening of the coloring matter of the blood but in the macrocytic type there is also deformity of the red blood cells. They are improperly shaped and much larger than normal. This is the sort of thing that occurs in pernicious anemia, as well as in another disorder called sprue, prevalent in the tropics, and sometimes during pregnancy.

Formerly these conditions could be treated only by administration of liver extract. Now we have a new substance called folic acid which is effective in combating them. Folic acid is a part of the Vitamin B-complex.

Pernicious anemia causes a lessening in the number of red blood cells, loss of weight and strength, a peculiar lemon-yellow color of the skin, as well as some damage to the spinal cord resulting in symptoms affecting the nervous system.

According to Dr. Robert W. Heinle of Cleveland, when a patient with untreated pernicious anemia is given folic acid, improvement in the condition results which is equal to that obtained with liver extract. When the folic acid is given either by mouth or by injection into a muscle or into a vein (although injection into a vein is not recommended) there is a prompt increase in the number of red cells in the blood, the amount of coloring in the red cells and in the number of white blood cells. The large red blood cells known as macrocytes disappear. The patient feels better; his appetite improves; soreness of the tongue vanishes and numbness and tingling of the extremities are lessened. Regular treatments with folic acid will prevent relapses.

Similar improvement occers in sprue. In this disorder there are also such symptoms as diarrhea and the presence of large amounts of fat in the stools. All of these symptoms are overcome with the folic acid treatment. The folic acid causes no reaction. Of course, the dose to be used must be regulated by the physician and whether a given patient can be best treated with folic acid or liver extract is also a matter for him to decide.

Rabbit, Pheasant Seasons Cut Due To Poor Breeding Year

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 14—Three straight years of cold, wet nesting and breeding seasons, plus a post-war increase in the number of hunters caused the Ohio conservation commission to issue shortened 1947 pheasant and rabbit hunting season schedules today, tentative until the group's July meeting.

Last year's 41-day rabbit season was slashed to 35 days, and pheasant from 14 to seven. The pheasant season was announced as Nov. 15-22 and rabbit from Nov. 15 until Dec. 13.

Daily hunting hours, including opening day, are from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. The commission did not alter the daily bag and possession limits of four rabbits and two pheasants.

A state-wide squirrel season was established for Sept. 13-27, with the limits of four continuing. The grouse open season was set for Nov. 15-29.

The commission said there would be no open season on skunk or Hungarian partridge but the opening date of the Lake Erie trapping district was advanced from Dec. 1 to Nov 15 to coincide with the opening date of the inland trapping district. The Lake Erie district closes March 15 and the inland district, Jan. 15.

If no protests are received before the next meeting the dates become permanent.

Many Baby Murder Clues Still Followed

By The Associated Press

MASSILLON, O., June 14 — County Prosecutor Deane McLaughlin said today "there still are a great many clues to be run down" in the mysterious deaths of two baby girls at City hospital on Friday night, June 6.

"I see no reason now," McLaughlin said, "to request Stark county commissioners to post a reward for information concerning the case.

"If after we trace down these clues, we still hit a blank wall and are stymied, then I will make such a request to the commissioners," he said.

McLaughlin declined to elaborate on what clues his investigators, Assistant Prosecutor W. Bernard Rodgers and Detective Harry W. Grossglaus, might be trying to run down.

Grossglaus told the prosecutor the information gathered thus far provided some basis for hope that a solution could be found in the deaths of Diane J. Brand, eight weeks, and Rosemary Norton, 10 weeks, who were found dying of skull factures in the hospital's pediatrics ward.

"No Tipping" Picture Model Sues C. and O.

By The Associated Press

Hoard, identified in the petition as a dining car waiter for the Santa Fe railroad, contended that tips are a substantial part of his income and use of his photograph by C. and O. has damaged his reputation among fellow waiters.

CONVICTED CLARK CO. PROSECUTOR MISSING

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., June 14—Police of several states today sought Jerome A. Nevius, convicted former Clark county prosecutor, who was ordered last Tuesday to commence a one-to-10-year sentence for accepting bribes from gamblers.

Nevius was reported to have been absent from Springfield since June 2, when the U. S. supreme court refused to review his conviction. He is sought by Sheriff J. Arthur Shuman on a common pleas order by Judge Glen C. Davis that Nevius now must commence his Ohio penitentiary sentence.

Last night Shuman asked the state highway patrol to alert neighboring states—especially Indiana—to seize Nevius as a "fugitive from justice."

"I am tired of the way this case has been going and unless I act there will be public criticism," Shuman said.

He said Nevius supposedly had gone to Indiana to visit his wife who is ill. He also reported that Nevius' father, Frank, had promised a report on the missing former prosecutor by today—but that he did not think "there will be a report."

Nevius lost an appeal to the Ohio supreme court before taking his legal battle to the Washington tribunal.

PLANE

from Chicago at 1:45 p. m. yesterday on what the line designates as flight 410. It was due in Washington at 6:35 p. m. after stops at Cleveland and Pittsburgh. The place where it crashed is roughly 65 miles from Washington.

When the plane became overdue and it was apparent there had been a mishap, all this section in the heart of the Virginia horse country organized for an emergency.

Ambulances were summoned from Washington and other cities and waited throughout the night.

The ground search was concentrated largely in the area of the crash, due to a report from a mail carrier that he had heard the sound of a plane and seen flashes in the sky. In the dark and the rugged country, no trace was found until daylight permitted the air search.

The plane was named Capitaliner Baltimore. It went into commercial service on June 15, 1946, after reconversion from military duty.

Scarred Mountain Slope Marks Site Of Plane Crash

By EUGENE B. DOBSON
Associated Press Writer

LEESBURG, Va., June 14—A burned out mass of wreckage—a dark scar across the green slope of a Blue Ridge mountain—marks the spot where a huge Capital airlines plane crashes and burned last night with 50 persons aboard.

I flew over it this morning with E. D. Morris, Arlington, Va., pilot.

As we flew by, barely 50 yards away, it appeared impossible that any of the 47 passengers or crew of three could have survived.

There was no sign of life in the area.

The charred wreckage of the big-four-engined plane was scattered some 200 yards through a thick second growth of scrub trees. An area that long and some 50 yards wide was burned out.

From the air, only a few pieces of the plane could be seen to have resisted the force of the impact and the holocaust that apparently followed.

Toward the center of the dark, rock-sprinkled gash on the mountain side stood a single section of the plane's tail assembly—a lone sentinel amidst the rubble of ashes and wreckage.

We passed over the scene, watching intently for any movement that might mean some of the 50 aboard had not perished.

There were no signs of life visible to us.

There was nothing but flame-seared wreckage.

Reich Communists Have Begun Summer Offensive, U. S. Says

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, June 14—Germany's Communists—supported by Russian occupation authorities and inspired by aggressive Communist tactics in Hungary and elsewhere in Europe—were embarked today on what an American official called a "summer offensive" of their own.

This offensive is being waged by the Soviet-sponsored, Communist dominated Socialist Unity party (SED) with campaign headquarters in Berlin, where the representatives of Russian Communism and western democracy are in constant contact as they attempt to give four-power administration to this city and to Germany.

The Communists' principal objectives, as interpreted by responsible American officials, are:

1. To regain full control of Berlin's city government—lost in a resounding election defeat last October—possibly by forcing an early new election.

2. To spread Communist influence into the western zones of Germany, occupied by the U. S. and Britain, through an intensified propaganda attack on British-American policies.

3. To quicken enactment of their economic policies in the Russian zone of Germany, overriding such political resistance as still exists there.

In Berlin, American sources predicted, the Communists might soon launch a campaign for a new election before the end of 1947.

Insomnia and Distaste for Family Life Needed by Reporters "Covering" President

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — A White House reporter's principal need is a strong constitution, coupled with insomnia and a distaste for family life.

His assignment carries him many thousands of miles a year, to gay modern cities or to places steeped in history.

What he sees most, however, are telegraph offices, hotel rooms and bellboys. His wife spends her time worrying, or wondering.

The Washington correspondent covering the President may have the finest of beds, but no time in which to sleep in them; the finest of food, with no opportunity to enjoy it; educational sights within walking distance, and no chance to cross the street.

I've traveled many thousands of miles with Harry S. Truman during his two years in the presidency and during his 1944 campaign for the vice presidency.

Variety of Conveyances

We've rolled by train across the continent. We moved to and from Europe by cruiser and by smaller ship to Bermuda and back. There have been flying trips to Kansas City, to Key West, to San Francisco and a dozen other places.

I've seen a lot of water, a lot of sky and a lot of trackage. I've seen a lot of the President.

The places I've been, however are hazy memories of whizzing past buildings, of speeches in banquet halls, stadiums and other meeting places — of sleepless nights, of checking in at airports in the darkness of early dawn.

The life of the White House correspondent, despite the whirl that carries him to colorful datelines for his copy, is not all ambrosia!

Yet the "good trips," as the correspondents call them, wipe out memories of the bad.

Take Bermuda. There, the correspondents like to recall, they lived "high up on the hog."

Playing Tag

It was last summer. Huddled in a crowded cabin on a destroyer escort, their sea jackets and heavy overcoats ready for the worst, they headed for New England waters with President Truman.

They were following the presidential yacht, the U.S.S. Williamsburg. A few hours out of Quonset Point, R. I., they learned the ship's course had been reversed.

A couple of days later they were relaxing at Bermuda. Mr. Truman had turned there when the seas got rough.

For a week the reporters had little to do but bask in the sunshine, enjoy the naval base bar and roam around Hamilton, doing a little fishing and swimming in between.

The recent trip to Mexico City, however, was a nightmare for the White House press. Everybody loved the city, but nobody saw it.

President Truman, always an early riser, moved about from dawn's early light until it was bedtime for even the more hardy stay-ups for three action-packed days.

The fourth day the President departed in his plane, the "Sacred Cow," for the United States. Everybody had to get up at 4 a. m.

They had left Washington five days before at 6 a. m., after attending the annual dinner of the White House Correspondents Association. The second day, after covering Mr. Truman's visit with his mother at Grandview, Mo., they had taken off from Kansas City at 2 a. m.

Stories of Seas On Ohio Screen

"The Sea Hawk" and "The Sea Wolf" Presented by Casts of Stars.

Two adventure stories of the high seas, "The Sea Hawk" and "The Sea Wolf," comprise the billing now being shown through Thursday at the Ohio theater. Both pictures are being seen in return showings.

Heading the cast of "The Sea Hawk" is Errol Flynn. Flynn is seen as a hero of the danger-swept waters of the Spanish Main in the sixteenth century, fighting in mighty sea battles, and daring duels.

Edward G. Robinson, Ida Lupino, John Garfield and Barry Fitzgerald are starred in "The Sea Wolf." The story is of the captain of "The Ghost," Wolf Larsen, in whose heart there is neither softness nor mercy. He is the most feared and most hated captain that ever sailed the high seas, and the men who sailed with him on the ship seldom lived to relate their experiences.

"Moss Rose," a mystery-thriller starring Peggy Cummins, Victor Mature and Ethel Barrymore, will open Friday and run for seven days.

In the picture, which was adapted from a British best-seller by Joseph Shearing, Peggy Cummins is seen as Belle Adair, a chorus girl who is filled with ambition to some day become a "lady."

Showing as an added attraction with "Moss Rose" will be a March of Time picture, "The Russians Nobody Knows." It is a presentation of the first uncensored films out of Russia and will give the American people an opportunity to know the people of Russia better and learn more of their country.

SHOWN ABOVE IS A SCENE from the technicolor film version of "The Yearling," which opened Friday at the Palace theater to run through Tuesday. In the starring roles are Gregory Peck, Jane Wyman and Claude Jarman Jr., the new boy discovery.

"The Yearling," Pulitzer Prize Story, Heads Program at Palace

"The Yearling," adapted for the screen from Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings' Pulitzer Prize novel, is now being shown through Tuesday at the Palace theater, having opened Friday.

With Gregory Peck in the role of Penny Baxter, Jane Wyman as Ma Baxter, and Claude Jarman Jr., the new boy discovery, as little Jody, whose love for a pet deer motivates the drama, the technicolor film tells the story of a courageous, hard-working family who encounter both happiness and tragedy in their struggle to get a living from their small plot in Florida's dense scrub country.

High points in the story include the hunt for a bear called Slewfoot, the episode in which Penny is bitten by a deadly rattlesnake, Jody's adoption of his little fawn, the tragic results when the deer eats the young corn shoots and tramples down the tobacco crop, and the climax when Jody runs away from home only to return later to take his place as a man in the Baxter house.

Billed to be shown Wednesday through Saturday is a double feature, "Blaze of Noon" and "Little Mister Jim." The former stars Anne Baxter, William Holden, Sonny Tufts and William Bendix, and heading the cast in the latter are "Butch" Jenkins, James Craig, and Frances Gifford.

"Blaze of Noon," adapted from a story of the exciting and dangerous days when sky-happy daredevils pioneered the air mail, tells of four flying brothers who give up barnstorming in carnivals to take up the even riskier business of piloting the first air mail planes.

"Little Mister Jim," is the story of an eight-year-old boy, the son of an Army couple who live on an Oklahoma Army post grounds in pre-war days.

Saturday morning, a kiddie show will be featured and is scheduled to begin at 9:30. This will be the second in a series of shows planned for the young people on Saturday morning.

PIVORUNAS HURLS BRUINS TO 6-3 WIN OVER RICHMON

Cubs Go To Muncie for Single Tilt Tonight, Twin Bill Sunday

Special To The Star

RICHMOND, Ind., June 14—Marion's Cubs made it two straight over the Richmond Roses here last night, winning 6-3 in a rain-abbreviated game which ended with one out and one on in the Richmond half of the eighth inning after a steady downpour.

The victory enabled Manager Nelson Burbrink's club, which heads from here to Muncie for a single game Saturday night and twin bill Sunday afternoon, to move within three percentage points of third place Newark in the Ohio State league standings.

Roses Get 3 Hits

While the Marion outfit was clubbing three Richmond hurlers for 11 safeties, four of which were manufactured by third baseman Johnny Smith, Casper Pivorunas was setting the Roses down with three base knocks, two of the infield variety. The three Rose runs were set up by walks as Pivorunas issued eight passes in all.

Bill Norwood, starting pitcher for the Roses gave up three runs in the second inning before being relieved by Bob Becker, who gave up another in the third and two in the fifth before Bob Gordon came to his rescue and blanked the Cubs the rest of the way. Norwood was charged with the loss.

Three Cub runs in the second resulted from a walk to Bob Shuford, singles by Mel Nelson and Jim Forbes, a fielder's choice by Roy Hollingshead and a balk by Norwood.

Burbrink singled to open the third, stole second and scored as Shuford lashed a base hit to center.

In the fifth Dwight Maxhimer walked and went to third on Burbrink's second hit of the game. Becker then attempted to pick Maxhimer off base and threw wild, Maxhimer scoring and Burbrink going to third Shuford's fly ball to left scored Burbrink.

Marion Acquires New Outfielder

The Cubs have a new outfielder. He is Walter J. Rasmussen of Chicago who joined the team last night in Richmond.

He was sent to the locals by Hutchinson, Kan., of the class C Western association.

Rasmessen comes here highly recommended by Jack Sheehan, director of the Cubs farm system. The new fly chaser is five feet 10 inches and weighs 170 pounds. He bats and throws lefthanded.

While at Hutchinson he played with John Smith and Jim Sabens, present members of the Marion team. Sheehan told Judge W. Dexter Hazen, Marion chief, Rasmussen would be the best outfielder in the Ohio State league. He is reported to be a batter on the type of John Smith who goes for line drives rather than power and is expert at getting on base. For that reason he was used as a lead-off man by Hutchinson.

Muncie Trounces Lima, 8-1, In Only Other OSL Game

By The Associated Press

Rain wiped out half of the Ohio State league's schedule last night, including the rubber tilt of a three-game series between leading Zanesville and second place Dayton.

Marion notched another 6-3 verdict over Richmond.

Muncie mired Lima's Terrier's deeper in the loop cellar, with an 8-1 pasting behind Wally Post's six-hit flinging. Post's lone run to Lima was unearned and the 17-year-old youngster gave but one walk. Leonard Lamont helped the cause with a two-run fourth inning homer.

The Springfield-Newark game was rained out while Dayton and Zanesville played one inning before the elements took charge.

GORDON LIVES UP TO MANAGER'S HUNCH

Breaks Slump with 2 Homers As Tribe Wins, 5-4.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 14—In discussing the sad affairs of his Cleveland Indians the other day, Manager Lou Boudreau said he figured Joe Gordon didn't have any place to go except up.

The former Yankee second baseman made his boss' statement look prophetic last night as he emerged from the throes of a batting slump and paced the Indians to a 5-4 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics

Entering the game with a .248 batting mark, Gordon accounted for the Tribe's first tally in the fifth inning with a tremendous home run deep into the upper deck of the left field stands.

Joe came up again in the eighth with Les Fleming on base and belted another round tripper into the same territory to provide what proved to be the winning margin

Bob Feller started on the mound for the Indians and set a torrid strikeout pace for the first five innings The Tribe fireballer whiffed 10 A's during that period and allowed only one hit.

The Indians fashioned a 2 to 0 lead in the fifth on successive homers by Gordon and Ken Keltner, but the A's got one of the runs back in the sixth when Barney McCoskey tripled after Eddie Joost walked.

Philadelphia knotted the count with two more in the seventh.

Gordon's second four master gave the Indians a two-run lead in the eighth but Philadelphia sliced the margin to one run in its half of the same frame

Feller struck out a total of 12 batters and allowed all of the A's six hits in receiving credit for his eighth triumph of the season, though relieved by Klieman in the eighth.

Red Munger Latest Card To Regain Champion Form

By The Associated Press

One by one the groggy St. Louis Cardinals are dragging themselves of the floor and shaking the cobwebs out of their brains.

Harry (The Cat) Brecheen and Enos Slaughter never went down but the others have been rocking back on their heels since mid-April.

The latest to recover is George (Red) Munger who has bounced back from a wobbly start to hobnob with the pitching leaders.

Last night Munger had a 3-0 whitewash job against the Brooklyn Dodgers, who still are regarded by the Red Birds as "the team to beat." Before the game owner Sam Breadon had assured the players the club would not be sold and Manager Eddie Dyer would not be fired.

The New York Giants were idle but the league leaders contributed the biggest news of the day, a pitcher swap with Boston by which Bill Voiselle and an unannounced sum of cash went to the Braves for Mort Cooper. Thus the old Cooper brothers battery, Mort and Walker, was re-united.

The braves' Red Barrett racked up his fifth straight win, throttling Pittsburgh, 6-2, in the opener on Boston's second western tour. The result, and Brooklyn's night loss, moved Billy Southworth's men into third place.

Chicago elbowed into second place, a half game back of the Giants, by a 4-3 edge over Philadelphia.

With Detroit's night game in Washington rained out, the New York Yankees blew a chance to close in on the American league leaders when they bowed to the St. Louis Browns, 4-3, in 10 innings at the Yankee stadium.

Boston's Red Sox dedicated their new lighting system with a 5-3 victory over Chicago before a capacity crowd of 34,510.

MORTON COOPER SOLD TO GIANTS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 14—Morton Cooper, mainstay of three St. Louis Cardinal pennant winning teams, was back with a first place club today—the National league's front-running New York Giants

Currently leading the circuit by a half game, the surprising Giants have been looking for a route-going righthander all season as rookie Bill Ayers and Voiselle have failed to come through while Larry Jansen has been erratic The brunt of the righthanded mound chores so far has been borne by Clint Hartung, reconverted outfielder, and relief specialist Ken Trinkle.

Chinese Weds Own Child by Mistake

By The United Press

CANTON, China — A Chinese business man married his own daughter in the village of Chungshan, but discovered his mistake just in time.

Twenty years before, Li Shao Kwei (Young Devil Li) had sold his infant daughter Helen when his wife died and he was unable to bring her up. He sold the girl to a childless couple and a contract was drawn up.

With the proceeds, Li went to Singapore, where he established a trading business which was moderately successful. Time went on and Li decided it was about time to take another wife.

He returned to his native village and arranged with a marriage broker to find a suitable wife. The ceremony was performed but on the wedding night, when the bride was showing her husband her dowry, he spotted a yellowed document in the bottom of the chest.

It was the sale contract he had drawn up 20 years before, in his own handwriting.

Li now has a new wife, and Helen is their daughter.

DES MOINES RIVER THREATENS FLOOD

By The Associated Press

DES MOINES, June 14—The flood spotlight swung again today to Ottumwa and the lower Des Moines river valley today as residents rushed final preparations to meet new flood crests only slightly less severe than those which ravaged the valley last week making thousands homeless.

Meanwhile, cities on the lower Iowa river and the Cedar river, eastern Iowa tributaries of the Mississippi, also braced to fight off new flood waters. Several hundred families in many communities have been forced from their homes.

A small army of volunteer workers, National Guardsmen, Navy and Coast Guard personnel worked feverishly setting up temporary sandbag dikes in Ottumwa, scene of the most disastrous flood in the Des Moines river history.

The weather bureau reported that a crest of 26 feet .2 of a foot higher than last week's record level, was reached this morning at Tracy, 30 miles upstream from Ottuma. Flood stage at Tracy is 14 feet.

The 32,000 residents of Ottumwa were warned to expect a crest of 20 to 20.5 feet about noon tomorrow. The all-time Ottumwa high of 20.24 was set last week. Flood stage is 9 feet.

Ottumwa flood director Hershel Loveless said he did not hope to keep the floodwaters from the city, but that dikes were being built "in hopes that, we can cut down the current that proved so disastrous last week."

E. N. McIlrath, stated Red Cross public relations officer, said the Red Cross was housing 460 persons at Ottumwa in three shelters, and had served 3,350 meals yesterday. Several being sheltered by the Red Cross have been unable to return to their homes after last week's flood.

Lecithin, recovered from soybean oil, is used by the petroleum industry to stabilize the color of its refined products.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

MARY'S expressive mouth quirked into a wry grin at my question.

"Trying association of ideas on me, are you?" she countered.

"Nothing so scientific," I told her, smiling. "I'm just remembering something from my mother's training of my memory when I was Faith's age."

"And I suppose you don't call her scientific!" she gibed.

"Not in the way you mean," I told her. "She was an omnivorous reader, but I'm sure she had made no special study of memory training."

"Well," Mary commented, "if results count, I'll back your memory against any person in the world trained scientifically."

"Thank you," I said. "Now, let's get back to those first two lines. Do they remind you of anything?"

She bent her eyes to the first two lines of her role in my unfinished play, and suddenly giggled.

"This is really something," she said. "It goes back to the 'dear, dead days beyond recall,' thank God! — when Noel and Georges and Olina and I were playing stellar roles in the 'international romantic quartet,' as Uncle Dicky used to call us. Georges and Noel and I were in the library at the Larches — you remember that old Colonial mansion out near the farmhouse at Sag Harbor, where Olina and those grim watch dogs of hers lived for awhile?"

"I'll never forget it," I told her with emphasis, for the memory of those hectic days when the Princess Olina, a fugitive from her royal family, lived near us incognito, was still vivid in my gallery of mental photographs.

"Well," Mary went on, "Olina had gone into another room for some reason, and when she came back, she spilled something very like these two lines."

"There you are!" I told her jubilantly. "Just link that incident to those two lines, so that when you think of the lines, you think of the incident. I'll wager you'll never forget those two lines at any rate."

"Suppose I remember what Olina said instead of my lines?" she asked.

"Don't be absurd!" I told her, although I knew her point was tenable. "Put these lines you're studying into Olina's mouth. In your memory, make her say them, and forget all the rest. Can you do that?"

Will Try Plan

"I can do the best job of forgetting in seventeen counties," she said. "But I'll try your plan and work at it hard. Do you want to hear me recite?"

"Not now," I told her. "I'm going to sit over here and read, paying no attention whatever to you. It will be as though you were alone in the room. But when you have tested your memory of those lines several times and found them perfect, then tell me. I'll have you sit back and relax for a few minutes. Then I'll ask you to give me the lines."

"If I pass the test," she asked wishfully, "may I go on studying?"

"Your further study," I told her firmly, "does not depend on your passing of this test or any other."

"On what then?" she asked quickly.

"On your condition when you are finished with the test," I replied. "And Aunt Katharine is the sole judge of what you can safely do. My province is helping you get back your ability to memorize your roles. But you are her patient, and you must obey her rules.

"But I'm going to make one suggestion," I went on. "Don't crowd yourself! Take it easy; just sit back and let the words of the role sift through your mind as if they were flour in a sieve. If you go after your task in that way, I am sure you will succeed."

I walked to a chair, and turned it so she would be sure my eyes were not on her.

Picking up a magazine, I read diligently for the space of half an hour.

Then I heard a faintly jubilant exclamation from Mary.

"I do believe I have it, Auntie Madge!" she said.

"I'm very glad," I told her. "Now, lean back, shut your eyes and relax. Try to empty your mind of everything until I speak to you."

"That won't be hard," she quipped, with a wan smile. "My brain's virtually a vacuum right now."

"Shut your eyes!" I commanded, "and stop talking."
